2 butterflies

through my open window. Steer them with a broom. One’s out and circles the sunlight. The other balancing on the broom, we develop an understanding as I gently extend, such act granting me the privilege of further news. I've done well,

I learn, but "Our life is a dream you can never have."